LABOUR TURNOVER, SEPTEMBER, 1965

This report gives the results of a survey of labour turnover in Australian industry in the month of September, 1965 and shows these results together with those obtained in similar surveys covering the month of September in previous years. Because of the effect of seasonal fluctuations, the trends in labour turnover are most clearly shown by comparing successive turnover rates for the same month of each year. Labour turnover rates are influenced by the seasonal nature of employment, particularly in the food, drink and tobacco industry and, to a lesser degree, in other industries. A report entitled "Labour Turnover, March, 1965", published on 25th August, 1965, contained the results of a survey in March, 1965 together with the results obtained in similar surveys relating to the month of March in previous years.

2. In these surveys labour turnover is, in accordance with general practice, measured by the number of engagements or separations expressed as percentages of average employment during the period under review. Engagements and separations refer to the turnover of individual businesses, including the movement from one business to another within the same industry group.
3. Table 1 shows figures of both engagements and separations expressed in this way for manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries. Table 2 shows the engagement rates for manual workers by industry group. Table 3 shows the separation rates for manual workers by industry group, and Table 4 gives the analysis of these separation rates according to dismissals, retrenchments, persons leaving employment on their own initiative, and other causes.
4. The period covered in individual returns varies, since it depends on the dates on which pay-roll tax returns of individual businesses are made up for August and September in each year. The average period is about four and a half weeks.

Industrial Coverage

5. The survey is based on a sample within certain industries of businesses subject to pay-roll tax, that is, businesses paying more than $400 a week in wages. The survey excludes businesses whose pay-roll is below the taxable limit, as well as religious, benevolent and other similar organizations which are exempt from pay-roll tax. In addition, the survey excludes rural industry; private domestic service; certain businesses such as accountants, trade associations, consultant engineers, etc.; the shipping and stevedoring industry; the motion picture industry; government employment; and semi-government undertakings other than banks and airlines.

(a) See introductory text for note on industrial coverage.

(b) The number of employees in "female non-manual workers in manufacturing industry" is relatively small and consequently less significance should be attached to small changes in the labour turnover rate in this category than to similar changes in the larger employment categories.

(c) Includes manual workers in "Non-manufacturing" for which separate estimates are not available.
